

XIth ADVANCED LAPAROSCOPIC WORKSHOP ON FEMALE PELVIC SURGICAL ANATOMY ON UNENBALMED CADAVERS

Date:10-11 March, 2017

Number of places: 12

Organized:

ICGON Institute Clínic of Gynecology, Obstetric y Neonatology - Gynecology department

CLICK HERE TO REGISTER

WHAT IS THE CORE OF THE COURSES?

The essence of the workshop is SURGICAL ANATOMY. Not anatomy, nor surgical technics.

But what surgical anatomy is? The technics that give us the opportunity to turn a map (anatomy) on to a road book and therefore allow us to answer, at all times, the three main questions related to safety during a surgical procedure:

- What is that?
- Where is it?
- Which way?

AUSPICES

Requested auspice of the AAGL

HOW ARE WE DOING IT?

Ascending three steps:

1-Review of pelvic anatomy: theoretical lecture, with three main items supporting the lecture:

- Schemes
- Atlas imaging
- Video sequences of dissections or real surgery

2-Learning and understanding what is surgical anatomy, and thus constructing our road book through female pelvis: theoretical lecture

3-Doing it in the dissection room: practical session hands on in unembalmed female cadavers, with just two attendants for each corpse.

FACULTY

Members of both gynaecology and anatomy departments and expert specialists invited from all over Spain.